

Mapping study of Organisations and Networks in South Asia
Volume 1 (Map of Organisations and Networks)

Who We Are

The International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF) is a global service provider and a leading advocate of sexual and reproductive health and rights for all. We are a worldwide movement of national organizations working with and for communities and individuals in more than 170 countries. IPPF works towards a world where women, men and young people everywhere have control over their own bodies, and therefore their destinies. A world where they are free to choose parenthood or not; free to decide how many children they will have and when; free to pursue healthy sexual lives without fear of unwanted pregnancies and sexually transmitted infections, including HIV. A world where gender or sexuality are no longer a source of inequality or stigma. We will not retreat from doing everything we can to safeguard these important choices and rights for current and future generations.

Our Mission

To lead a locally-owned, globally connected civil society movement that provides and enables services and champions sexual and reproductive health and rights for all, especially the underserved.

Our Vision

All people are free to make choices about their sexuality and well-being, in a world without discrimination.

Acknowledgements

The International Planned Parenthood Federation – South Asia Regional Office (IPPF SARO) would like to thank

Ms Durba Ghose, Ms Kavita Arora and Ms Rita Mishra for their support in researching and writing the report and compiling the compendium of organisations and their resources covering adolescent sexual and reproductive health and cross cutting themes.

We are very grateful to the youth focal points and young volunteers at our Member Associations – Family Planning Association of India, Family Planning Association of Sri Lanka, Family Planning Association of Nepal, RENEW – Bhutan, Family Health Association of the Islamic Republic of Iran, Society for Health Education (Maldives), RAHNUMA – Family Planning Association of Pakistan and the Family Planning Association of Bangladesh for connecting us to their local partners and organisations implementing unique programmes across the Region.

Our gratitude to Mr Manish Mitra, Mr Ryan Joseph Figueiredo, Dr Jameel Zamir and Ms Malavika Thirukode at IPPF SARO for their technical inputs and support with coordinating with stakeholders.

IPPF SARO gratefully acknowledges UNFPA Asia Pacific Regional Office who provided support for this independent study.

Foreword

18% of the population in South Asia are young people in the age group of 15- 24 years. These young people represent a demographic dividend with high aspirations and potential. Declarations such as the 2013 Global Thematic Consultation on Population Dynamics formally recognise that constructive and accountable leadership of young people in the future, including their active participation in economic, political and social life is only possible when governments and civil society invest in education and healthcare.

The specific initiatives that these investments should include are comprehensive sexuality education (life skills education) and access to sexual and reproductive health care, including family planning. These are very important considering illiteracy, forced child marriage and gender based violence that place young people in South Asia at very high risk of unintended pregnancies, complications resulting from unsafe abortions and violence. Equally important is that this change be led by young people, especially young people from marginalised communities and young women.

Through desk based reviews, interviews with key informants from local organisations and online surveys, this mapping report lists youth -led and youth- serving organisations, commonalities of programme portfolios and knowledge products that are mutually beneficial.

Previous mapping initiatives covered working groups, international NGOs, youth-friendly SRH services, faith based youth networks and SRHR thematic youth networks, culminating in recommendations for creating a youth networking strategy.

This mapping report broadly classifies and details the types and modes of youth programming. Specifically, classification based on the nature of interaction with young people and the primary model of programming as being either service delivery oriented and/or advocacy. It also includes a directory of innovative initiatives across South Asia, importantly, highlighting the potential and aspirations of organisations to transition from being youth serving to youth led.

The current mapping study has not only identified organisations/networks/individuals with programme portfolios that focus on young people but uniquely classify them based on the nature of their interaction with young people. This work can be classified as organisations (programmes) that work 'for' youth wherein the programmes are decided, designed and developed by adults; working 'through' youth wherein programmes assign young people a pre-decided role to reach a specific objective and working 'with' youth equally.

Organisations are further classified based on their work. Specifically, as being distinctly service delivery focused (youth friendly sexual and reproductive health services) or distinctly human rights focused with programming relating to identity, sexuality, bodily autonomy, consent, choice etc.

This report considers the direct and tangential programming that encompasses SRH work. Organisations directly working on SRH themes with specific departments for youth programming and engagement as well as those working on broader areas such as women’s organisations, livelihoods and primary education with the potential to introduce young people to their programme portfolio are both included towards identifying collaborative opportunities between the two.

We hope the findings of the report and the directory of organisations will encourage our peers to partner with young people and provide clarity for measuring youth leadership. Importantly, we hope that it acknowledges the potential of young people and our collective inter-generational capacities to bring about change.

About the Document

This document, a result of a mapping study undertaken in nine countries in south Asia, showcases the dynamism of youth work and SRHR work in the region. It contains a purposive sample of 68 organisations/networks working either on issues of SRHR, youth development and participation or both, with full recognition that the two are intrinsically linked.

The data presented in the directory is information gathered either through primary data shared by the respective organisations/networks and/or supported by desk research. This is by no means an exhaustive list.

By its very nature, a 'map' highlights the contour of a terrain to give a picture. With this understanding, and given that the study was aimed at strengthening SRHR work with/for youth in South Asia, the choice of listing an organization in this document has been exercised based on the following:

- Only those organisations that are working with youth, either as primary audience or as one of the key target audiences have been included.
- Organisations where evidence of innovative approaches and methodologies have been found, have been included.
- Youth-led organisations have been given priority, and have been included to the maximum extent possible.
- Diversity in terms of size, outreach, scope and nature of work has been given priority in an effort to capture the dynamism of the work happening in the region. This also implies that similar organisations may not have been listed. This does not discount the quality or the relevance of the work they do.
- Availability of information about an organization has also determined its inclusion in the study.

The purposive sample maps the following for each of the organisations listed:

- A categorization based on their focus on youth and SRHR as well as youth leadership.
- Engagement of the organization/network in sectoral capacity building.
- A brief description of the organisation and its work.
- A snapshot of relevant approaches and methodologies they use while working with young people and/or on SRHR.
- Contact details including address, phone numbers, website, email, Facebook and YouTube links.
- A list of resources including publications, trainings, research, films etc.

It is hoped that this directory will contribute towards strengthening collaboration and networking among organisations working on SRHR of young people in the region by acting as an Information guide/ready reference material and support them to transcend geographical boundaries.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Based in Karachi, Aahung works towards improving sexual and reproductive health and rights of individuals through improving quality of SRH service delivery, addressing issues such as child sexual abuse, gender based violence, preventing unwanted pregnancy and providing youth friendly services through life skilled base education. The organization is also engaged deeply in advocating for reproductive health and rights and developing capacities of service providers and educators.	Aahung develops the capacity of public and private school teachers to integrate quality life skills based education (LSBE) into the school curriculum. Aahung's efforts in this is to equip teachers with accurate knowledge and effective teaching methodology so that they are able to discuss ARH issues in the classroom. Aahung's LSBE curriculum covers a range of issues including pubertal changes, gender discrimination, HIV / AIDS, protection from violence, peer pressure, rights within the Nikah Nama (Islamic marriage contract), positive health seeking behaviours and the importance of planning a family. Aahung's modules have been run in diverse social and cultural contexts across Pakistan and have been accepted as highly culturally and religiously appropriate within the country context.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Established in 2005, AYON aims to bring youth organizations together to provide a common platform for collaboration, cooperation, joint actions and collective endeavors in Nepal. AYON is a national network of non-government, non-religious, not-for-profit youth organizations in Nepal. It acts as an umbrella organization of youth organizations. It calls for coordination, network, support and cooperation from the government, non-government, business institutions, civil society and young people for collaborative actions for youth programs and policies. Due to AYON's link with numerous other youth organizations, it carries the capacity to plan and deliver programs across 75 districts.	To mark Earthquake Safety Day, AYON organized a theater marathon in 2015 in collaboration with Pathshala Theatre and Youth Initiative Nepal. This initiative brought together 10 colleges and 100 artists in 40 locations around 1 drama plot, reaching out to 50,000 people. AYON'S My Rights, My Voice (MRMV) programme promotes children, youth and young mothers' leadership by developing their confidence and capacity to undertake advocacy and campaign work for the improvement of health services. AYON also engages in organizing capacity building programmes, publishing IEC materials on health right issues and prepare documentaries, conduct baseline studies and lobby meetings etc.

Bandhu Social Welfare Society (BSWS) envisions a Bangladesh where every person, irrespective of their gender and sexuality is able to lead a quality life with dignity and social justice. works toward the well-being of sexual minorities by facilitating sexual and reproductive health services and supporting human rights, dignity and livelihoods of their choices. Its activities are grounded at the grassroots level, involving emerging CBOs across the country (25 CBOs, both MSM and hijra). Its training unit works towards building capacities of organisations in the field of reproductive and sexual health and rights. Over the years, BSWS has successfully collaborated with the Government of Bangladesh and development partners to ensure appropriate SRHR based services including HIV prevention intervention for sexual minorities. BSWS service model has been recognized as a best practice model by UNAIDS and Amfar Foundation USA.	The Gender and Sexuality Resource Centre of BSWS creates a safe space for MSM and TG youth. The first of its kind in Bangladesh, the centre hosts a range of activities including workshops to build awareness and engagement of college students with realities and challenges of sexual minority groups. Through an annual Media Fellowship Award, BSWS has been facilitating journalists to report on the rights and conditions of sexual minority groups in Bangladesh towards building awareness and challenging prejudices and stigma since 2011.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Centre for Catalyzing Change (formerly CEDPA India) works with this vision that women and girls are fully empowered and enabled to realize their rights, opportunities and achieve gender equality. CCC reaches out to both in-school as well as out-of-school adolescents girls with programmes focusing on building their leadership skills. Besides providing correct information and awareness on health issues, CCC's programmes focus on enhancing awareness on gender equality, nutrition, hygiene, sexual and reproductive health, HIV. Civic responsibility and vocational training are also CCC's priority areas. The Centre for Catalyzing Change is the founding member and National Secretariat of the White Ribbon Alliance in India.	CCC's YouthLIFE (Life Skills, Information and New Technologies, and Education) programme enhances adolescent girls' and boys' knowledge and guides informed decisions and healthy behavior choices around their Reproductive Health. YouthLIFE combines CCC's Life Skills and Reproductive Health curriculum, incorporates classroom and computer learning, peer discussions and sharing of information through use of new technology platforms. The digital curriculum is designed for young boys and girls studying in classes 6, 7 and 8 (aged 10-14 years) and involves innovative ways of learning through edutainment, simulation games and exercises. CCC's Promoting Parent Child Interaction and Communication Project grew from a recognition of the need for parents to be better empowered and aware on adolescent growing up issues. The project reached out to primary caregivers and adolescents to help them communicate better on physical and physiological changes that occur in adolescents. The program has reached out to 1000 parents with adolescent children aged 13-17 years in 13 villages in Bihar.

CEQUIN (an autonomous unit of Jai Jawan Jai Kiran Trust) works towards the empowerment women and girls, with a rights based approach. The thematic areas of work are i) leadership building; ii) addressing gender based violence; iii) economic empowerment and iv) health and well being CEQUIN has been successfully implementing their football for girls project with a conservative Muslim community. Girls participating in this project are increasingly opting for higher education.	Through its Agents of Change Workshop at the Government Senior Secondary School in Mewat, Haryana, CEQUIN built a supportive network through the boys in schools. Through this workshop, the students were encouraged to think out of the box through stimulating activities. Gender stereotypes were effectively shattered and the students were facilitated to plunge into self-discovery and awareness about their social environment. After the success of this workshop, 5 more workshops were conducted in other schools. Workshops were organised for both boys and girls in separate sessions. CEQUIN, in its bid to do its part in the fight to end Violence Against Women and Girls and to mark the '16 days of Activism' involved over 200 students from ten schools for a flashmob on Women Human Rights Defender's Day (29 November 2015) as a part of the 'Kickstart Equality' campaign.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
ComMutiny represents the 'mutiny' within that evolves when one works deeply in diverse communities. ComMutiny – The Youth Collective (CYC) was set up in 2008 to promote the rights of young people for participation, development and leadership. A key focus of CYC is to incubate new youth organisations/action projects and strengthen youth-led initiatives across India. Some of CYC's significant Initiatives towards advocating for youth development and participation include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• My Space.. My unManifesto - A country-wide campaign to take the demands of young people to public representatives.</li> <li>• Samjho .. Toh .. Express - A youth-led campaign for social inclusion</li> </ul>	CYC acts as a collective of nearly 50 youth led and youth engaging organizations and supports them to collaborate to promote and advocate for youth leadership across the country. CYC's youth development and leadership approach is captured in a framework, which it terms as 5th Spaces. CYC defines 5th Spaces as spaces where young people discover themselves by engaging in social action. Spaces that focus as much on the self transformation of youth as on transforming society through them. Spaces that build on aspects of understanding the self, developing meaningful relationships and impacting society. CYC's Changelooms programme supports young social entrepreneurs through offering them opportunities to explore their leadership potential, delve into self-transformation processes to identify one's own strengths, fears and drive the change from within and take it outside to the society. The programme also supports these leaders to strengthen their interventions through building their skills in design and facilitation, offering seed funding and network with other youth initiatives, stakeholders and campaigns.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
CREA is a feminist, human rights global south organisation working on strengthening feminist leadership, advancing sexual and reproductive health and rights, preventing gender based violence with particular focus on marginalised women (LBT, women with disabilities, girls and sex workers). CREA, as part of the Sexual Rights Initiative, also works to advance sexual rights as a particular set of rights and as a cross-cutting issue within international law, specifically in the work of the United Nations Human Rights Council (UNHRC). CREA also monitors the implementation of Acts, such as the Protection of Women against Domestic Violence Act 2005, and works with various coalitions to fight for the sexual rights for all. CREA is one of the few international women's rights organisations based in the global South.	Through its It's My Body programme, implemented in collaboration with 15 community-based partner organisations, CREA works in eight rural districts in Bihar, Jharkhand, and Uttar Pradesh, to strengthen the SRHR of adolescent girls. The programme enhances access to public spaces and provides SRHR information to young girls (12-16 years) using sports as an entry point. Use of sports allows CREA to enable them to make their own decisions related to their bodies, health, and lives. Use of sports also strengthens girls' team working and leadership capacities, and enhances their mental and physical well-being and self-esteem. Reproductive Health Matters, an annual publication, is the only peer-reviewed Hindi journal on sexual and reproductive health and rights and human rights. The focus on these issues is through the concepts of consent, choice, and agency. Filling the knowledge gap and foregrounding global South perspectives are CREA's priorities. CREA's Mobile Phone Infoline provides SRHR information to young people.

Dream a Dream is an award-winning, professional charitable trust registered and based out of Bangalore. They have been working with young people from vulnerable backgrounds since 1999. It works with a collaborative approach with 60 partners, 3000 volunteers, impacting over 60,000 young people each year. Dream a Dream understands the universe of the young person in the following way: At the centre of Dream a Dream's approach is the young person with a potential to overcome adversity and develop the life skills. Next, are the closest influencers - parents, teachers including caring adults, mentors or facilitators. Beyond is the volunteer, a role model who creates positive learning experiences in the young person's life. The outer key influencer is community, including potential employers, administration, the government, and policy makers. Dream a Dream's programmes are designed in a way that all these four sectors made aware of the challenges and are impacted to create the best possible world for the young person.	Dream a Dream's volunteer engagement program brings together community volunteers from corporates, colleges and larger society to engage and deepen impact on young people through their time, skills and role modeling. Volunteers can participate in life skills programs, go for an outdoor experiential camp, become a mentor, run a fundraising campaign, make donations and offer pro-bono professional services. With recognition of the huge impact that unprecedented global changes is having on young people, and the need to engage diverse stakeholders in creating solutions that are geared for the future, Dream a Dream organized an International conference in 2015. 'Change The Script' had over 200 participants, including teachers, mentors, psychologists, volunteers and young people, who underwent the intensive process of reflecting on their stances, exploring their roles as solution providers, transforming their approaches and learning innovative approaches to prepare young people for the 21st century.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Family Planning Association of India (FPA India) has been working with communities for over six decades with the objective of improving their sexual and reproductive health and lives. As an ISO 9001:2008 certified national NGO, the organisation has spearheaded the family planning movement in India. FPA India is a founder member of the International Planned Parenthood Federation, London. FPA India's activities include providing quality services and supplies to communities, empowering women, men, particularly young people, through awareness programmes, addressing issues through advocacy on SRHR, HIV/AIDS, human sexuality, and family planning. As an organization, FPA India complements and supports the Government of India's work and now looks beyond to create new evidence and indicative models which would guide the programmes with innovation and insightfulness.	FPA India ensures the active involvement of young people not only in programs but also in governance. At each Branch and at the Central Governing Board of FPA India, 20% of the members are young people. Movement Youth-to-Youth Project, Khatauli Uttar Pradesh involved over 150 Maulvis (religious teachers) working in 65 Madrasas (Muslim religions schools) to help in providing reproductive health education to adolescents studying in these schools. The students in turn share their knowledge with out-of-school youth. Shadows and Light – To strengthen their work with the transgender people, FPA India has recruited staff from these communities. This has helped to identify the needs and demands of the people from the community and decrease resistance from the community to avail the services offered.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Family Planning Association of Nepal (FPAN) is a member of the International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF). It is the first and a leading national NGO devoted to SRHR. Established in 1959, FPAN started family planning and SRH programmes in Nepal before the government launched its own Family Planning and Maternal and Child Health Project in 1969. It complements and supplements the national health and population programmes of the government. FPAN's current programs are focused on Adolescent, Safe Abortion, HIV/AIDS, Advocacy and Access. Gender is a cross cutting issue in all the programmes. The Association also organizes several training programmes to train the service providers from the public and NGOs on running health facilities, especially on family planning, safe abortion and HIV&amp;AIDS.	In the total service of FPAN, 40% clients are youth and among its volunteers, 42% are young people. They are provided SRH education and services through FPAN service centers and youth information centers. FPAN trains and mobilizes a large number of peer educators for promotion of SRHR. The peer educators are represented from young generation, vulnerable women communities, key affected population and natural resource management institutions. At present, an estimated number of 5,000 trained youth volunteers of FPAN are engaged in promotion of SRHR including advocacy as well service delivery.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Family Planning Association of Sri Lanka (FPA Sri Lanka) was initiated in 1953 to provide services to women on family planning and reproductive health information and services. Since then the organization has evolved to cover a large spectrum of services within the SRHR field and has been a strength and support to the government in achieving their targets for development and health. FPA Sri Lanka is an accredited member of IPPF. FPA Sri Lanka aims on creating space to ensure that all persons – along with vulnerable groups – have equitable access to sexual and reproductive health services and information without any discrimination, restrictive laws, policies or practices. FPA focuses on the following key areas pertaining to sexuality and reproductive health: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- To provide adequate information and services</li> <li>- To improve the acceptability, accessibility and the quality of SRH</li> </ul> The organization also engages in training and interventions and integrates human rights based and gender sensitive approaches.	Youth Technical Advisory Committee (YTAC) is a group of young people elected from among the youth volunteers of FPA Sri Lanka for a two-year term. The key role of YTAC is to provide insight into the strategic work of the Association, bringing in a youth perspective and to monitor and evaluate programs in the area of adolescents. YTAC also engages in voluntary activities throughout the year, to promote sexual and reproductive health of young people as a right and networks with other organizations to advocate for issues of HIV, gender based violence and for the rights of the marginalized in society. FPA Sri Lanka works with the Sri Lanka Girl Guides Association to increase SRH awareness among youth, both in girl guides and their peers. A booklet launched by the girl guides on HIV/AIDS has now been distributed in over 300 schools. The Light to Life Project provided SRH services to the physically handicapped army soldiers along with advocacy/awareness programs and counselling services through setting up several mobile health camps in order to address the SRH issues and sexual aspirations of differently abled soldiers.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Indo-Global Social Service Society (IGSSS) is a non-profit organisation working with the mandate for a humane social order based on truth, justice, freedom and equity. Established in 1960, IGSSS works for development, capacity building and enlightenment of the vulnerable communities across the country for their effective participation in development. With its presence in 25 states and one Union Territory of India, IGSSS has set its thematic focus on promoting sustainable livelihood, energising the youth as change makers, protecting lives, livelihood and assets from the impact of hazards, advocating for the rights of homeless people and developing cadre of leaders from the community and civil society organisations. Gender and Youth are underlining theme across all its interventions.	SMILE (Students mobilisation Initiative for Learning through Exposure), which was initiated in India by IGSSS in 1986, is one of the earliest programmes focusing on youth development in India. Today, SMILE operates in Kashmir and Manipur, where societies are challenged by long-ongoing conflict, with a focus on channeling energies of diverse youth – urban, rural and marginalized - positively in order to develop a generation of confident, self-reliant and self governing youth who would engage in people friendly and democratic governance mechanisms and lead and address societal changes so that they are able to integrate justice, peace and development. Creating youth spaces for self-discovery and exploration through exposure and experimental learning, building their capacities through life skill and leadership trainings, creating opportunities for them to lead the change in society through self-designed and self-driven campaigns, advocacy on youth issues, to address gender based inequalities, discrimination and violence – all form focus areas of SMILE. Some other relevant initiatives supported by IGSSS are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Positive Fatherhood initiative through partners in Uttar Pradesh and Manipur.</li> <li>• The Churners Programme that identifies and builds capacities 10 young people to pilot development initiatives to impact governance.</li> </ul>

Lhak-Sam, which translates as altruism, is an endeavour of a group of people living with HIV. Lhak Sam + LGBT Bhutan works towards removing stigmatization in relation to sexual orientation and gender identities in Bhutan. Besides supporting people living with HIV to accept themselves, Lhak Sam educates them on sexual health and other related issues they face within the community. A first network of its kind, Lhak Sam is also the tenth organisation to get registered under the CSO Act in Bhutan in 2010. The organisation is a member of The Asia Pacific Network of People living with HIV/AIDS (APN+),	Lhak Sam focuses on advocacy with young people - school students, out-of-school youth, police and armed personnel. The advocacy starts with PLHIV sharing their experiences with the audience and then the audience is encouraged to raise their queries and get their doubts clarified. The capacity building of Lhak-Sam members involves a Treatment Literacy Programme and peer outreach work. In a situation where meeting one HIV positive person often takes a week of negotiation, 8 PLHIV members of Lhak Sam have covered 17 districts of Bhutan and brought 107 out of the 225 people recorded as living with HIV in the country into its network.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Milaan – Be The Change is a youth-based team, which came together to promote access to education in remote rural parts of India. Milaan believes that it is an imperative to bring about equality in society. Towards this, Milaan educates, enables, and empowers children and young people, especially adolescent girls in rural India. With deep belief in the power in every individual to be change-makers in their own lives and the communities they come from, Milaan inspires young girls as change-makers to advocate for their right to access free, safe and quality education.	Milaan’s Making Schools Menstrual Friendly initiative maps infrastructural deficiencies and the level of awareness in the public schools of Uttar Pradesh to take necessary action and fill critical gaps with the help of relevant stakeholders. Research, integrated communication strategy and impact assessment are the three major components of this initiative. The initiative also focuses on enabling the rightful space for adolescent girls to engage in a healthy conversation on several aspects of menstruation and menstrual hygiene management (MHM). The initiative is underway in 25 public schools in the district of Balrampur, Uttar Pradesh, in partnership with UNICEF and the Department of Panchayati Raj. Making Schools Menstrual Friendly is inspired by Azadi – an impact venture with an aim to make menstruation a non-issue in India, since menstruation is one of the major factors causing girls to drop out of schools.

With a mix of self development, knowledge/skill-building and mentoring support from Mittika, in 6 weeks, a group of 24 young volunteers could positively impact the lives of over 6900 people including the release of overdue NREGA payments for over 350 families and regularizing water supply in 3 villages in Rajasthan. Mittika developed and implemented YCS to initiate the implementation of VSO India's 5 year youth strategy. ABC or 'Ab, Baaki Charcha' or 'Now, the Remaining Dialogue' is an advocacy campaign, which used magic, dance and movements, forum theater and games and arts to engage Delhi's citizens, especially young men in dialogue for gender justice. The campaign could engage over 6000 people in 34 communities in Delhi-NCR in dialog in three months. In its second avatar, the campaign focused on building dialogue on masculinities through theater and spurring youth-led action and succeeded in forming action groups in 7 Delhi colleges. ABC is a collaboration between CHSJ (MenEngage Secretariat in South Asia) and Mittika.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
The Naz Foundation (India) Trust is a New Delhi-based NGO working on HIV/AIDS and sexual health issues since 1994. Through the years, Naz India has evolved to implement a holistic approach for combating HIV, involving prevention as well as treatment. The focus of the organization is on reaching out to marginalized populations infected or affected by HIV to help reduce stigma, improve health, and empower families. Naz Foundation also aims to sensitize the general population to the prevalence of HIV, and to highlight issues related to sexuality and sexual health.	Naz India was a pioneer in providing services to the MSM and LGBT community in India. Naz India's Milan Project, from 2004-2008, was India's first targeted involvement programme in the LGBT community. In 2006 Naz India, in partnership with Standard Chartered Bank, piloted the Goal programme which is a women's empowerment programme that works in urban communities. Goal uses the sport of netball and life skills education to transform the lives of young underprivileged girls in India, on and off the court. The curriculum focusses on educating the young women on topics including health, rights, communication, financial literacy and teamwork. As a strong advocate for the sexual health and rights of the sexual minority community, Naz India with the Lawyer's Collective (www.lawyerscollective.org) spearheaded the 12 years' legal battle against Section 377 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC).

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
People for Parity (PFP) is a youth-led social change organisation, which works on shifting attitudes and beliefs around gender and gender violence, to achieve a world free of systemic gender based discrimination and violence, where every individual can strive to be their best selves. Founded by an IIT Delhi alumni and based in New Delhi, PFP is among the few social enterprises in the country, which works with issues concerning all genders with deeply imbibed values of empathy, restorative justice, inclusion and non-violence. PFP considers all forms of human rights violations on the basis of person's gender like sexual abuse, domestic violence, limited access to education etc. as GBV, and strongly believes that these are simply manifestations of prevalent gendered mindsets and norms.	Pukar, India's first Safety App developed by PFP, allows anyone in danger to send SOS alerts to one's emergency contacts, and also to the local police by a single click on a SOS button on one's mobile phone. Through PUKAR, the Police Control Room (PCR) receives a signal with the user's name, contact number and the person's real time location, enabling them to take immediate action and execute a rescue operation if required. Pukar is currently available to smartphone users in select cities in Rajasthan and Uttarakhand in India. Pratiti is a personal transformation journey for survivors of GBV, which enables them to process their violent experiences and heal, in order to achieve their full potential as well as for the society to break the vicious cycle of violence. Each cycle of Pratiti engages 20 survivors of GBV for a period of 3 months through a three day residential workshop, bi-monthly check-ups, one-to-one meetings and a celebratory event.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Prantakatha, which means the narratives of change from margin, is a youth development organisation that works with marginalized youth from various cross sections of society. Prantakatha focuses on the power of storytelling towards social change. This finds expressions in the organization's two pronged approach, which are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- youth active citizenship development and</li> <li>- creating spaces for youth dialogue on marginalized issues within the mainstream of life.</li> </ul> The organization works towards developing community leadership abilities in the marginalised, excluded, violated, by facilitating their inside out journey that empowers them to turn their personal pains into power and transform their narratives to become community inspirations. This in turn inspires many more to join the league.	AAMaN is a peace building effort by Prantakatha, which works towards preventing child trafficking in 22 blocks of the district of North 24 Parganas in West Bengal, which is a major 'source area' having a long border area with neighbouring Bangladesh. Under this programme, Prantakatha also runs legal and community help services to prevent domestic violence and different other forms of violence based on intolerance and inequality. Prantakatha's dialogue forum focuses on supplementing stories of hatred with stories of love, tolerance and peace to break the culture of hatred that one is habituated to accept - be between religious groups, ethnic groups of same religion, between people with different sexual orientations, or even between just men and women. Prantakatha also makes efforts to work with the survivors of human trafficking and girls from red light areas on issues of their SRHR.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Pravah has been working in the field of youth leadership and active citizenship since 1993. With operations in Delhi and Jaipur and a large network of partners across India, Pravah works to build youth leadership for social change through the design and delivery of innovative programmes with diverse groups of adolescents and youth across the country. Pravah trains teachers, supports youth-led initiatives, incubates new youth organisations, and partners with other organisations to create an ecosystem of organisations that can advocate for youth development and active citizenship. Pravah Learning Voyages offers comprehensive trainings designed as voyages for individuals and organisations in the area of Youth Development (building effective youth facilitators) and Instructional Design (building design capability). Pravah is a co-founder and incubating partner of ComMutiny the Youth Collective (CYC) a 'think tank' comprising professionals from across the country with a focus on deepening the 'youth development' discourse.	Pravah's Adolescent Intervention inculcates social responsibility amongst adolescents across diverse socio-economic groups through the development of life skills and awareness/ sensitization to social issues, and opportunities for social action. The Teen Club programme, the organisation's joint initiative with UNFPA and NYKS (Body under Ministry of Youth Affairs), creates clubs as empowering spaces that nurture and inspire adolescents to identify and fulfill their aspirations for a happy and healthy life. Through its Youth Intervention, Pravah works with young people in Delhi and Jaipur to enable them to become leaders of social change. The programmes are designed as learning and action spaces, wherein Pravah facilitates young people to gain key skills and competencies for their personal and social transformation. Pravah's Streaming Intervention partners with youth organisations, and supports them with institutional, programmatic and people capacity building to strengthen the individual organisation and the ecosystem of youth organisations in the country.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Partners for Urban Knowledge, Action &amp; Research (PUKAR) is an independent research collective and an urban knowledge production centre based in Mumbai, India. PUKAR aims to create a world class incubator for producing knowledge, ideas and innovation about inclusive and sustainable global cities through the lens of the youth. It democratizes research and uses it as a tool for learning, advocacy for and intervention in the community and transformation of self, community and city. PUKAR conducts multi-sectoral, cross-disciplinary, community-based participatory research on issues related to urbanization and globalization.	Youth and Urban Knowledge Production is a programme of PUKAR where a group of marginalized youth are provided with research and communication skills to conduct research over one year in their community. Supported by facilitators and resources persons, they use the city itself as a learning lab to build new knowledge. Armed with their research data, together they design, advocate, disseminate and implement change in their communities. Through this entire process and as learners/researchers, young people get exposed to existing hierarchies and social, cultural and economic diversities of the world to which they belong, thus becoming enabled to reflect upon themselves and problem-solvers for the future of their cities Youth Leaders as Changemakers is a year-long fellowship programme that enables college students to understand research beyond the confines of their science laboratory. The students engage with the city and its myriad neighbourhoods and communities to question, explore and understand existing realities. The larger focus of the capacity-building workshops is on self-transformation, knowledge production and active citizenship.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
The Rahnuma Family Planning Association of Pakistan, an affiliate of International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF), London, UK, envisions all people in Pakistan being empowered to make choices about their SRH and wellbeing in a world without discrimination. The organization is committed to lead a movement for SRHR and Family Planning (FP) as a basic human right in Pakistan, and to provide and enable sustainable and quality SRH including FP information and services to all, particularly the vulnerable and the underserved, in partnership with the government and all other stakeholders. Rahnuma-FPAP has built the capacity of its FHHs and FHCs and service providers to provide youth friendly services to youth. It has also taken the initiatives for comprehensive sexuality education and advocacy with relevant ministries to bring it in the curriculum of schools. Through magazines/ journals, newsletters and TV&amp;DVD documentaries/videos on SRHR issues, attractive sign boards, male and female doctors and youth counsellors, Rahnuma works to provide comprehensive SRH services to youth across diversities.	Rahnuma has established a National youth network (NYN) for incorporating youth perspective into their programmes, knowing the needs of the youth and making arrangements to cater to their needs, as well as leadership development amongst youth so that they could plan and implement youth focused programs. Rahnuma's youth programme builds capacities and skills of youth to access SRHR information and services. The programme's aim is to enable them to make informed choices and decisions regarding their SRH and act upon them. Peer education and life skill based education programs are integral part of Rahnuma's youth initiative. Rahnuma has made 52 Youth Resource Centers and youth helplines available across the country to reach out to young people in Pakistan's conservative milieu for providing SRH and other information and services. It has also made 17 Youth Friendly Spaces, with separate entry and exit points from the hospital, operational for youth to unhesitatingly access the Service Delivery Points. Rahnuma has also put a strong referral mechanism consisting private and public schools, medical practitioners, media, Government departments, hospitals and civil society organizations in place to provide complete support to young people.

Raksha Nepal is a social organisation, which has been working for sexually exploited girls, women and their children since 2004. The main target of Raksha Nepal is to protect women and young girls working in the informal entertainment sectors (massage parlors, dance bars and cabin restaurants) from trafficking and sexual violence by enhancing their knowledge, awareness and socio-economic status. In the mission of making girls and women free of sexual exploitation, Raksha Nepal is also involved in advocacy to make "society free of compulsive prostitution."	Raksha Nepal has got a Women Workers Protection Union registered. There are more than 3500 members in this first of its kind union registered in Nepal. As a strategy, Raksha Nepal organises and empowers girls and women through vocational and skill development training and links them to saving and credit cooperatives for loans to establish their own micro businesses. Raksha Nepal has supported more than 150 rape and sexually assaulted minors and girls with shelter, in fighting legal battles and providing education. A key strength of Raksha Nepal lies in its access to most vulnerable and at risk target groups in different locations of Kathmandu, Bhaktapur and Lalitpur.

Respect, Educate, Nurture and Empower Women (RENEW) was founded in 2004 by Her Majesty the Queen Mother Sangay Choden Wangchuck, with the aim to better the lives of victims and survivors of domestic violence and help integrate them back into their communities as independent, socially and economically productive members of society. RENEW actively promotes gender equality and provides protection and strengthening of women through: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Counselling of victims of violence</li> <li>• Legal assistance</li> <li>• Emergency shelter for women and children</li> <li>• Vocational training</li> <li>• Micro enterprises for income support</li> <li>• Prevention and education programs on HIV and AIDS</li> </ul> RENEW was the first agency to initiate a study on violence against women in Bhutan in 2007.	The Community Based Support System (CBSS) is RENEW's mechanism to ensure the safety and security of victims and survivors of domestic violence. Through partnerships with community members, RENEW nurtures forces within the community that question violence and create a seamless service that is more proactive and preventive than reactive and curative. Yeshey Dawa Project RENEW's project to disseminate legal knowledge and promoting rights of women and children.

Restless Development India works towards placing young people at the forefront of change. The organisation's strength comes from being led by young people and young professionals, from the boardroom right through to the field. Restless Development works in the areas of Livelihoods &amp; Employment, Governance &amp; Civic Participation, Young People &amp; Health. In India, Restless Development is registered as Students Partnership worldwide India Project Trust.	Action Beyond Borders (ABB) is an example of youth participation in the work done by the organisation. An 'Indo-Nepal initiative', ABB is a participatory research, conducted in select villages in Nepal and Bihar, involving young people living in the border areas. The young people actively participate in determining the themes of research, identifying the problems, designing data collection methods and collecting data. As a part of involving young people in this project, consultations and training workshops are held, and participatory techniques are used in the youth consultations. Restless Development partners with dance4life to organize a nationwide campaign against child marriage, called KNOT SO YOUNG. The aim of the campaign is to increase awareness on the impact of child marriage through active participation of youth.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Rozan is a community based NGO working on issues related to emotional and psychological health, gender, violence against women and children, and the psychological and reproductive health of adolescents. All of Rozan's programmes are structured around one or more of the following core primary strategies: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• awareness raising;</li> <li>• psychological support and referral;</li> <li>• capacity building and training.</li> </ul> Two new and emerging strategies of the organization are research and advocacy. Rozan was the Secretariat of the MenEngage Alliance until 2011 and conducts research on masculinities as well as works with men and boys in the community to mobilize them against VAW.	Rozan, being the first helpline to work on SRH related issues with youth in Pakistan, is recognized as resource center for other helplines. Humqadam, an Urdu word meaning 'a companion who walks alongside,' is programme of Rozan that aims at creating spaces for men to engage with the issue of violence against women. Humqadam explores alternative and healthier models of masculinities, raises awareness and mobilizes young men and boys at the community level to take the responsibility of addressing gender based violence at personal and community levels. In addition to running group education sessions, the programme offers young men and boys opportunities for activism through theatre training and campaigns. Using its approved training curriculum 'Attitudinal Change Module,' Rozan works with in-training Cadres, Constables, Sub-Inspectors, Inspectors as well as Assistant Superintendents of Police in Police Training Schools/Colleges across Pakistan to build their capacity and ownership to deal with issue of violence against women and children.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Samvada has been working with youth in Karnataka since 1992 on issues of social justice and sustainable development. Over the years Samvada has established itself as a leading youth organisation which works with young people from marginalised groups like the urban and rural poor, dalits, adivasis and women. The combination of social justice lens and youth lens in all its programmes and processes make Samvada a unique youth organisation contributing to youth work in India.	Baduku Community College, a unique initiative of Samvada, aims to include young people from marginalised groups through courses conducted in Kannada and designed with combining three pillars: Self Work, Perspectives and Skills. Every course is adopts an interdisciplinary approach that builds dignity, confidence, life skills, knowledge, socio-political perspectives, rights awareness along with vocational/ technical skills. Student mentoring continues even after job placements. The initiative has emerged as a strong critique to mainstream education that does not care about the 'self' and its relationship with 'society' and with a recognition that the formal and mainstream education system is unreachable for majority of youth, and also creates a wall between higher education and vocational education. Yuva Samvada Kendras (YSK) are youth resource centres of Samvada that provide a free and creative 5th space away from family, college, community and work. Various addas in the centres provide a welcoming and non-judgemental environment for young people to drop in and talk. Each YSK organizes group discussions, book readings, film screenings and workshops on socially relevant themes.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Society for Health and Education (SHE), a member of IPPF, works to ensure sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) for all. SHE was the first non-governmental organisation to establish a family planning clinic where couples could get information, education and counselling to plan their families, delay the birth of their first baby, and determine the age gap between their children by adopting family planning methods. SHE also works with migrants, resort workers, and people using drugs to extend reproductive health-related information and care to them besides offering free counselling and voluntary testing services for HIV/AIDS.	Through its school programme, SHE reaches the young people. In the schools, issues related to substance abuse, sexually-transmitted infections (STIs) including HIV, gender and sexuality, sexual and reproductive health are covered. SHE also provides psycho- social care and counselling to children and adults alike. Through various approaches such as play therapy, children as well as adults are helped to cope with the grief, anger, anguish and possible abuse in their life. SHE's services are available in the remotest islands through local partnerships. It also produces an extensive range of health education materials including both publications and radio and television programmes.

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Society for Nutrition, Education and Health (SNEHA) believes that investing in women's health is essential to building viable urban communities. SNEHA targets four large public health areas - Maternal and Newborn Health, Child Health and Nutrition, Sexual and Reproductive Health and Prevention of Violence against Women and Children. With recognition that in order to improve urban health standards, its initiatives must target both care seekers and care providers, SNEHA works with a two pronged approach: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• It works at the community level to empower women and slum communities to be catalysts of change in their own right</li> <li>• It collaborates with existing public health systems and health care providers to create sustainable improvements in urban health.</li> </ul>	The Empowerment, Health &amp; Sexuality Amongst Adolescents (EHSAS) programme covering 5500 boys and girls in the age group 11 to 24 years, takes a comprehensive approach and includes classroom based sessions on health and life skills education, field visits, community events using art, theatre / street plays and sports activities and vocational training. EHSAS is unique in working equally with boys. The programme is delivered by women facilitators trained by SNEHA, who belong to the same communities as the beneficiaries. Built around a highly replicable model, EHSAS has expanded fast and achieved increased beneficiary coverage. Partnerships with local vendors, corporate and private schools have lent to innovative volunteering opportunities and exchange programmes. One of the qualitative achievements of EHSAS is 20% and 21% increase in knowledge on gender and health amongst adolescents.

As a niche service provider in the public health sector, Swasti delivers end-to-end solutions as well as short and long term support and facilitation, combining research and practice. Swasti's areas of work include health system strengthening, sexual and reproductive health, gender based violence, life skills development, social protection, water, sanitation and hygiene, technology in public health. Swasti has 25 full time trainers with combined experience of over several decades in the areas of women's empowerment, workers advancement and life skills training. The trainers are conversant in Kannada, Tamil, Telugu, Hindi, Gujarati and Punjabi. Swasti's panel of Transformation Specialists provide strategic guidance and handholding support to trainers and the initiatives.	Pragati, a project of Swasti, takes an empowerment approach to HIV prevention. It has a structured violence response called Swathi Nyaya Sanjeevani that offers round the clock support to 16,000 female sex workers and is also run by them. Swasti works on development of a comprehensive city level ecosystem response in addressing gender based violence, particularly violence against women, girls and marginalised communities. Swasti has led and supported several programmes to advance and empower the workforce, especially women workers mainly in India and other Asian countries. Working with the key influencers of any workforce - management, trainers, supervisors, family members - is a key strategy of Swasti towards building an enabling environment for positive changes at the workplace, and thereby in lives of the workforce.

Profile

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Talking About Reproductive and Sexual Health Issues (TARSHI) works towards expanding sexual and reproductive choices in people's lives. TARSHI believes that all people have the right to sexual well-being and to a self-affirming and enjoyable sexuality and addresses all people, especially women and young people through various programmes. It is one of the few NGOs in India that works on sexuality, without restricting it to a disease-prevention, violence against women or within a sexual minorities' framework, but rather from an affirmative and rights-based approach. TARSHI conducts trainings, workshops and consultancies to make aspects of counselling skills, gender and sexuality more accessible to people, develops publications, engages in public education, runs an infoline giving topical and lucid information on sexual and reproductive health related issues and an online eLearning course on sexuality. TARSHI also engages with advocacy initiatives and activities and with organisations and individuals to highlight the importance of sexuality education for young people.	TARSHI launched one of the first helplines on sexuality and SRHR in India in 1996. This was the longest running service and ran for 13 years. TARSHI developed one of the first (and perhaps only) eLearning programmes on SRHR. The programme provides nearly 50 hours of self-learning for students and professionals working in the fields of SRHR, education, health etc. It is also one of the few organisations that systematically addresses issues of burnout prevention and care of the carer/service-provider/counsellor TARSHI's e-Magazine, In Plainspeak, generates dialogue among people in the digital world and creates content on issues of sexual and reproductive health and rights in the Global South. The digital publication brings together an eclectic mesh of articles, images, art and videos and includes features like video interviews, podcasts and thematic short films. About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
Started in October 2000, The ANT works to strengthen the voluntary sector in the northeast region of India. It works directly in villages for furthering the pace of development in the areas mainly falling under Chirang District of Bodoland. The ANT works mainly with the poorest and marginalised in villages, irrespective of community, class or religious affiliations. Significant initiatives of The ANT for youth and adolescents are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The Child &amp; Youth Development: Enriching education and development of village children through activity groups and programmes; developing a cadre of active youth volunteers for children's development; improving quality of science education in partner government schools; vocational training for youth</li> <li>• Empowering Women &amp; Girls: Promoting women's self-help groups (SHG) and federations; SHG income generation; action to stop Violence Against Women &amp; Girls; Women's Cycle Bank to increase women's mobility</li> </ul>	By establishing and innovative Women's Cycle Bank, The ANT has made it possible for over 500 women and girls to gain mobility. Seven sustainable chapters run by women's federations manage the Bank, and many other organisations have adopted this idea. In an area where girls never played football, the organisation has facilitated the formation of 10 girls football teams. In the first year itself, 8 girls played at District level and 1 girl played at the State level. The ANT's S4D programme for children is carried out by over 200 Community Youth Leaders (CYL). Chosen by their villages, the CYLs volunteer 2 hours a week to run the S4D sessions for children of their village. The Ant ensures that this group of youth also gets opportunities to realise their own potential and works on the all-round development of the CYLs, including offering vocational skills and making available opportunities for securing their livelihoods. The ANT's health diary is a mine of information on health with many illustrations, which is used regularly by people across the country to treat common illnesses. Through infocharts on basic medicines and how to take it, the organisation has put health into the hands of people, where it should belong.

Youth Voices Count (YVC) is a youth initiative led by young men who have sex with men and transgender women. YVC, as a regional network, brings together the most vibrant, diverse, and young community leaders in Asia and the Pacific. YVC works to address issues related to HIV, health, and human rights through capacity building, policy advocacy and community mobilization within the young MSM and young transgender communities in the region, recognizing their unique needs and vulnerabilities. YVC is currently present in 21 countries in the region with about 120 individual members.	YVC prioritises its advocacy initiatives under three key thematic areas: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. The neglected 'interior' dimension: Addressing self-stigma and its linkages to HIV</li> <li>2. Accessing services to save lives: Increasing uptake of HIV prevention, testing and treatment programmes by young MSM and young transgender people</li> <li>3. The big picture: Countering the broader social stigma and discrimination that impacts health outcomes.</li> </ol> IGNITE! is a programme of YVC, which was started for young MSM and young transgender women in Asia-Pacific to build a cradle of young leaders for the HIV movement in Asia and the Pacific. IGNITE! is designed as a peer-led 2 year programme that offers strong capacity building opportunities and mentorship support to each participant as well as a seed support for implementing two small scale projects in their own countries. A dedicated mentor supports the learning process of each participant, who helps them to develop work plans for the projects, guides them in the implementation process and creates opportunities for their exposure and networking.

Profile

About	Select relevant projects/programmes/practices
YUWA is a youth led organisation working to promote youth participation through empowerment and advocacy. YUWA was formed by a group of committed youth who were unofficially working in this sector since 2005. Their initial focus was on developing leadership skills in youth and to train young people as activists and advocates for change so that there is a wide and diverse array of knowledge, skills and experience in the development sector. Eventually the group recognized the extent of youth issues and the need to act, which, finally resulted in the formation of YUWA. YUWA works in 5 key thematic areas: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>(a) Active Citizenship,</li> <li>(b) HIV and AIDS and SRHR,</li> <li>(c) Environment and Sustainable Development,</li> <li>(d) Economic Initiation and Innovation,</li> <li>(e) Global Information Access.</li> </ul>	The executive body of decision makers at YUWA is formed by young people in the age-group of 16 to 27 years. Reaching Out Young Minds is YUWA's one day workshop for college students. The objective of the workshop is to orient the new generation on issues related to HIV &amp; AIDS and SRHR from a youth perspective. The workshop consists of sessions on basics of SRHR, national and international policy environment, overview of the youth dynamism in AIDS, advocating through new media, issues of LGBTI, harm reduction, etc. and documentary screening. Youth Activists Leadership Council (YALC) is a group of 10 youth activists, aged 16 to 24, who advocate at the national and international levels for improved sexual and reproductive health policies that support reproductive health/family planning services, comprehensive sexuality education and programmes that support meaningful youth participation.
